

Godwin Newsletter 15th September 2017

Head Teacher's Message

It has been a busy week with educational visits supporting learning; trips to The Houses of Parliament, The Museum of London and The British Museum have created a buzz across the curriculum.

Roald Dahl Day provided the opportunity for the children to explore the author's books as well as the chance for all of us to show our creative sides and dress up as our favourite characters.

The number of books represented was amazing – thank you for your support with this.

The children also had the opportunity to see the British Value of 'Democracy' in action as they voted to elect new School Councillors. We hope that they will contribute to making Godwin an even better school.
