

Head Teacher's Message

I know that you will agree how important reading every day is in developing children's imaginations, widening their vocabulary, building their general knowledge and opening up the possibilities that the world has to offer them. This term we are having a real focus on reading for pleasure – our Extreme Reading competition has started very positively. Well done Eva and Sylvie for being this week's winners. Please ask your child to tell you about it and look at the school website for inspiration!

Courtesy to Neighbours

It has been brought to our attention that some parents/carers who use their cars at the end of the school day are sitting with their car engines running and loud music playing.

This practice is not only damaging to the environment but also very annoying for those who live by the school.

We respectfully ask that you consider our neighbours and ensure that your school run does not have a negative impact upon them.

Thank you.
